

Postcard Fun!

This is a fun activity for students to practice their writing skills while designing their own postcard. Students will also practice and/or learn how to write an address.

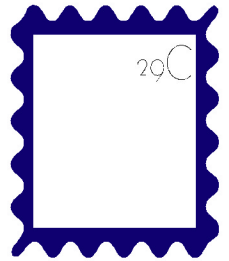

Students design the front of the postcard and choose who they would send the postcard to. Students may make up an address (using the correct format) or use a real address, at the teacher's discretion.

Remember to discuss that a postcard is different from a letter due to the fact that it is a short message, many times the picture shows where someone is visiting or living and it is sent without an envelope.
